

What is Our Future?

And What Does Faith Have to Do with It?

With Nancy Sylvester, IHM

Saturday, April 17, 2021 • 9:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m. (EDT)

This may not be an easy time to be alive, but it is an exciting and hopeful one. Come and explore how it is up to us to participate in shaping our future. We'll look at:

- How to take seriously the insight of Albert Einstein, who believed that we cannot address the problems of today out of the same consciousness which created them; and
- How to understand the power of our prayer as we explore the transformative role contemplation plays in opening us up to another way of seeing who we are and how we can be in the world.

This program will be in two parts: exploring how consciousness develops in an evolutionary way and its impact on what we are experiencing today; and contemplation as a spiritual practice and how it transforms us over time.

Nancy Sylvester, IHM, founded the Institute for Communal Contemplation and Dialogue in response to her experiences in working for justice and right relationships in the Church and society. She brings her belief that the impasse experienced in the work of transformation of Church and society requires a contemplative response. Nancy is an author and has lectured widely on topics including contemplation, transformation of consciousness, living in a time of chaos, societal shifts in the world and Church, the new universe story and Catholic Social Justice teaching.
