

Noreen Tenbusch, IHM

I was born into a God-loving family in 1933, in Detroit and learned very early how to love and serve God. I had many beautiful experiences during my childhood days. These experiences made me always want to be a teacher.

In 1951, I graduated from Immaculata High School where the IHM Sisters taught. Right after graduation, I entered the Congregation of Sisters, Servants of the Immaculate Heart of Mary. I earned my teaching degree from Marygrove College, Detroit, Mich.

I always loved my teaching ministry, as well as all the experiences I had with my students. I began my teaching ministry at St. John School in Monroe, Mich., then taught at St. Patrick School in Wyandotte, Mich., Christ the King School in Detroit and St. Mary of Redford School in Detroit. I taught for many years in Hamtramck Public School Systems and in 2004, I ended my teaching ministry there.

After I retired from working in education, I began a volunteer ministry at St. Margaret of Scotland Parish in St. Clair Shores. I was active in many ways in the parish including the funeral choir and the parish social service outreach where we helped to provide meals and services to those in need.

In June 2020, I moved to Traverse City, Mich. where I presently reside. I would describe my current ministry as a loving service among the community of elderly women and men who reside in the apartments where I live. I am very grateful for all the blessings of my life!
